Course Outline

Prerequisites: This class is intended for students accepted into the Ph.D. program, or with the permission of the instructor. The student should have successfully completed the equivalent of at least one semester of intermediate microeconomic theory.

Procedures: Class meetings will provide a mixture of lecture and discussion. Reading assignments are to be read before class meetings. To gain a fuller understanding, some of the assignments must be read several times.

Evaluation: Two major examinations will be given: a midterm (35%) and final (50%). Several problem sets requiring the usage of elementary calculus will be assigned (15%). The approximate weights for computation of class grade are indicated in parenthesis.

Texts: The following are listed as required text:

(1) Jack Hirshleifer & David Hirshleifer, Price Theory and Applications, 7ed. (Cambridge University Press, West Nyack, NY).

(2) Armen Alchian & William R. Allen, Exchange and Production, Competition, Coordination & Control - 3rd Edition (Belmont, California: Wadsworth Publishing Co., 1983).

Most other assigned readings (denoted by asterisk) have been placed on e-reserves. Additional readings may be periodically assigned.

Nota bene: Elementary calculus will be used in class and in work assignments. You should be enrolled concurrently in Mathematical Economics (Economics 630). Those requiring a review might consider purchasing Carl P. Simon & Lawrence Blume, Mathematics for Economists, (W. W. Norton & Company, 1994) Mastery of this level of mathematics is sufficient for this class.

I. Basic Economic Theory (Review)

*1. Alchian & Allen, Exchange and Production, chs. 1, 2.

*2. Hirshleifer & Hirshleifer, Price Theory & Applications, ch. 1.

*3. Vickrey, Microstatics, pp. 3-11.

4. Buchanan & Tullock, The Calculus of Consent, chs. 1, 2.

5. Boulding, A Reconstruction of Economics, pp. 3-38.

6. Wiener, The Human Use of Human Beings, pp. 1-66. (This is perhaps the best popular book on cybernetics.)
